LISTENING COMPREHENSION

(read twice)

Jack and Ben, both 20, were on the way home from a coffee shop in Manchester when they saw dog-owner Batu struggling with a lead over a wall. Ben said he suddenly saw a ‘guy with his lead in the river’ and thought he must have been walking a duck! It was only then he realised a dog was stuck in the canal which seemed to be ‘really struggling’.

He added, ‘Everyone was panicking. I couldn’t let that dog down and not help, so I put my jumper down and sprang into action – climbing down first. I’m a dog owner myself, so there wasn’t a chance I was going to leave it on its own but I couldn’t get it the first time.’

The students soon discovered the owner’s dog, Sumak, had fallen into Ancoats Canal and quickly launched a rescue attempt with the aid of five others. Jack said, ‘The crowd had begun to build, so the tallest person – which was Ben – was flipped upside down and he was able to grab the dog, as shown in the video.’

The footage shows a group of people suspending Ben by his legs while he scales the canal wall to reach the dog. The dog can be seen clinging to the wall of the canal, looking panicked as his owner grips him by the lead a few feet above him. Ben can then be seen stretching out and grabbing Sumak by the collar, lifting the dog out of the canal. The dog scrambles for a grip with its rear paws as Ben manages to get his arms under its front legs, while the band of people above him pull them both back up.

Ben said the dog owner was ‘ecstatic’ and they ran around the canal in celebration after it was rescued. ‘Afterwards, the dog was wagging its tail and jumping up and down, so excited.’

The footage was shared to social media on Monday, 13 February. The video has since received over 36,500 likes and more than 650 comments from users who applauded their efforts.

STUDENT:

You have had your own moneybox (piggy bank) since your last birthday. Your next birthday is coming up soon and the money you've been saving in your moneybox hasn't been used yet. You think there is enough money to buy an Apple iPad. But you have only saved up 156 euros. Not so much. Your mum/dad has a different idea about how to spend your money. Try to persuade them that an iPad is the only thing you need now and explain why. Give three or more examples of what you want to do with it.

TEACHER:

Your son/daughter's birthday is coming up soon. You are planning on investing no more than fifty euros for a present. An Apple iPad is very expensive although your son/daughter wants to offer to help using their savings. Another brand of tablet could perhaps be a good choice or maybe a second-hand device. Ask what they will use it for.

You start: 'Your birthday is soon. Have you got any idea what kind of present you would like?'
